We may also process your personal data without your knowledge or consent, in accordance with this notice, where we are legally required or permitted to do so.

In some circumstances we may anonymise the personal data so that it can no longer be associated with you, in which case we may use it without further notice to you.

7. Change of purpose

Where we need to use your personal data for another reason, different to the original purpose it was collected for, we will only use your personal data where that reason is compatible with the original purpose.

Should it be necessary to use your personal data for a new purpose, we will notify you and communicate the legal basis which allows us to do so before starting any new processing.

8. Your data protection rights

The lawful basis we rely on may affect your data protection rights which are in brief set out below. You can find out more about your data protection rights and the exemptions which may apply on the ICO's website:

YOUR DATA PROTECTION RIGHTS

- Your right of access – You have the right to ask us for copies of your personal information. You can request other information such as details about where we get personal information from and who we share personal information with. There are some exemptions which means you may not receive all the information you ask for. You can read more about this right here.
- Your right to rectification – You have the right to ask us to correct or delete personal information you think is inaccurate or incomplete. You can read more about this right here.
- Your right to erasure – You have the right to ask us to delete your personal information. You can read more about this right here.
- Your right to restriction of processing – You have the right to ask us to limit how we can use your personal information. You can read more about this right here.
- Your right to object to processing – You have the right to object to the processing of your personal data. You can read more about this right here.
- Your right to data portability – You have the right to ask that we transfer the personal information you gave us to another organisation, or to you. You can read more about this right here.

- Your right to withdraw consent – When we use consent as our lawful basis you have the right to withdraw your consent at any time. You can read more about this right here.

If you make a request, we must respond to you without undue delay and in any event within one month. To make a data protection rights request, please contact us using the contact details at the top of this privacy notice.

Profiling and Automated Decision Making

We may use profiling to enable us to give you the best service, so that we can produce more relevant and tailored communications by having a deeper understanding of your behaviours, interests and personal preferences.

You have the right not to be subject to a decision based solely on automated processing, which has legal effects for you or affects you in any other significant way. We ensure that there are simple ways for you to request human intervention or challenge an automated decision. We also carry out regular checks to ensure that our systems and processes are working as intended.

9. Withdrawing consent

In the limited circumstances where you may have provided your consent to the collection, processing and transfer of your personal data for a specific purpose (for example, in relation to certain direct marketing that you have indicated you would like to receive from us) you have the right to withdraw your consent for that specific processing at any time.

To withdraw your consent, please email datateam@krestonreeves.com

10. Data sharing

We will only share your information with third parties where we are required by law, where it is necessary to administer the relationship between us or where we have another legitimate interest in doing so, for example:

- To provide and support the services you have engaged us for.
- To verify your identity and check your details.
- To authorise payments and any other transactions.
- To prevent and detect fraud.
- To handle complaints and improve customer service.
- To provide or support marketing activities on our behalf.
- To perform our regulatory responsibilities.

- To provide us with professional advice and specialist support services.
- To provide us with IT support and maintenance.
- To provide us with IT systems and cloud hosting.
- To support in the possible sale or restructuring of the business.

We'll never make your personal data available to anyone outside Kreston Reeves for them to use for their own marketing purposes without your prior consent.

11. International transfers

When appropriate, for example when we work with foreign professionals on your behalf to provide you with certain services, or where we provide the data at your request. We will transfer your personal data to other professional organisations in countries outside the UK, EU and EEA which do not have the same level of data protection as the UK.

As part of your engagement with us, we will notify you, on engagement, of any non-UK, EU and EEA countries and details of the organisations to which we will be transferring your personal data. We will ensure your personal data is appropriately protected at all times.

We have in place appropriate legal safeguards with professional organisations in non-UK, EU and EEA countries which contractually require your personal data be protected in accordance with the law.

We reserve the right to change these professionals as and when appropriate but will keep you informed of any changes that affect you. Should you require further information about these protective measures, please contact us using the contact details in Section 2 above.

12. Data security

We have put in place appropriate security measures to prevent your personal data from being accidentally lost, used or accessed in an unauthorised way.

In addition, we limit access to your personal data to those employees, agents, contractors and other third parties who have a business need to know. They will only process your personal data on our instructions, and they are subject to a duty of confidentiality.

We have put in place procedures to deal with any suspected data security breach and will notify you and any applicable regulator of a suspected breach where we are legally required to do so.

External Links

Please remember that if you use a link to go from our websites to another website, or you request a service from a third party, this privacy notice will no longer apply once you have left this website. Please note, your activity and interaction on any other website is subject to that website's own rules and policies.

13. Data retention

We will only retain your personal data for as long as is necessary to fulfil the purposes for which it is processed. When assessing what retention period is appropriate for your personal data, we take into consideration:

- Any statutory or legal obligations.
- The requirements of the business.
- The purposes for which we originally collected the personal data.
- The lawful grounds on which we based our processing.
- The types of personal data we have collected.
- The amount and categories of your personal data; and
- Whether the purpose of the processing could reasonably be fulfilled by other means.
- After such time, we will securely delete or destroy your personal data.

14. What to do if you are not happy

Please let us know if you are unhappy with how we have used your personal data by contacting the Data Protection Officer (details can be found in section 2).

You also have a right to complain to the Information Commissioner's Office. You can find their contact details at www.ico.org.uk. We would be grateful for the chance to deal with your concerns before you approach the ICO so please contact us in the first instance.
